Vice Chancellor's Message

I am privileged to present before our readers the 9th issue of Spreadsheet. When we started the Newsletter of Jamia Hamdard in March 2001, we were only hoping that this will become a vehicle for transportation of ideas and images of Jamia Hamdard in India.

It gives us immense satisfaction to know that Spreadsheet has received positive feedback from academics, teachers and students not only in India but also in several foreign countries. Spreadsheet has spread awareness about the vibrant academic and cultural atmosphere of Jamia Hamdard which now attracts students from 26 countries. From the academic year 2004-05, three issues of Spreadsheet are going to be published instead of two issues as it was so far. The University has seen a lively academic and extracurricular culture in the last six months and our students have won laurels in several all India level competitions. From the academic year 2005-06 the format of Spreadsheet is also proposed to be changed. If you have any ideas on this, please let us know so that we may be benefited by your vision of Jamia Hamdard's new Newsletter.
