5. The 4th Cycle of Accreditation

Director IQAC informed the House that although Jamia Hamdard improved its CGPA from 3.08 to 3.15 in the last (3rd) cycle of NAAC accreditation, it was still short of expectation. UGC has made certain policies requiring minimum CGPA of 3.26, in particular for grant of approval for online and distance education courses. Anyhow, due to good ranking in NIRF permission has been granted to run such courses. The next accreditation is due in September 2022. Accordingly, university has to augment preparations for timely submission of data and documents. In view of central role of IQAC in ranking and implementation of various regulations and schemes of UGC and other regulatory agencies IQAC will be required to be strengthened in terms of manpower and technology. Jamia Hamdard is contemplating implementation of Campus Management System with support from the Sponsoring Body. However, in case it takes time, Director IQAC proposed to acquire a truncated version of software system on urgent basis to manage data and information for NAAC accreditation.

Prof. Mujeebur Rahman informed that AMU has recently gone for NAAC accreditation process. He informed that there has been a significant change in NAAC methodology and there is a lot of emphasis on digitalization of data and documents. Accordingly, Jamia Hamdard has to prepare itself properly. Moreover, Jamia Hamdard is not fully supported by the Government funding and therefore it will be assessed more stringently.
